Mr. Cleveland's Record on Internal Revenue Taxation. Washington, May 7th, 1892.

To the Editor of the Alexandria Gazette. The internal revenue system of taxation has always been regarded by the people of Virginia as partial, burdensome and hostile to the spirit of free-dom. In the better days of the republie these taxes were not favored. Even Alexander Hamilton declared that "the genius of the people would illy brook the inquisitive and peremptory spirit of excise laws." These excise duties made the administration of the elder Adams odious and contributed largely to the odious and contributed largely to the overthrow of the federal party. In 1805 Mr. Jefferson, in his second inaugural address, said: "The suppression of unnecessary offices, of useless establishments, enabled us to discontinuo our internal taxes. These covering our lands with officers and opening our lands with officers and opening our doors to their intrusions, had already begun that process of domiciliay yexa-

The democratic party swept away these taxes, but they were again resorted to in order to meet the extraordinary expenses of the war of 1812. But not as a permanent system. They were very soon repealed and for forty your no excise duties or taxes were imp. sed. In 1862 they were revived and h. We since been upheld by the republican party and the friends of the great toba co and whiskey rings of the

There was one redeeming feature in this internal re venue system; namely the income tax. This tax exempted persons of small mer us and it fell lightly on those whose in omes were less than $2,000; but it fore d most of the money changers and rich men to bear their fair proportion of the public bur-pens. There was a great outcry raised against this tax by the plutcerats of Boston, Hartford, New York, Philadelphia and other cities, and this brancht of of the internal revenue system was re-pealed not long after the war. The taxes which bore like a blight on the farmers of Virginia and North Carolina were retained, and all ameliorations and reductions in them were effected and reductions in them were effected with great difficulty against the sturdy opposition of the eastern capitalists. The whisky ring perpetuates its grand monopoly by keeping the tax of 600 per cent, on the value of the original product while its advocates and organs. product while its advocates and organs loudly denounce the tariff monopoly.

Responding to the general sentiment of the people of Virginia the democratic State convention held at Roanoke, Filling with silver, platina, August 4th, 1887, included in their platform the following resolution :
"We demand the immediate repeal of the internal revenue system, a relic of the war, and no longer necessary to meet the demands of the government, because it is oppressive, fosters monopo-lies, and is obnoxious to the interests of our people."

Can any honest man deny the justice of this indictment? Is not every word of this indictment? Is not every word of it true? Has it not been a grievous oppression to the people of Virginia? Had there not been hundreds of honest men indicted, prosecuted and hounded under these laws until a general system of terror existed? In a single district of North Corolling in 1872 there were as many as Corolina in 1872 there were as many as 2,500 individuals in the U. S. courts, and such indictments were freely used both in North Carolina and in Virginia to coerce voters to join the republican party. Doubtless in other southern States the same iniquitous system ob-

Yet these taxes were no longer necessary, as stated by the Virginia convention in 1887, for as Mr. Cleveland reported there was a very large surplus in the U. S. Treasury. I think he esti-mated it at $140,000,000 on July 1, reported there was a very large surplus in the U. S. Treasury. I think he estimated it at $140,000,000 on July 1, 1888.

What was Mr. Cleveland's reply to the appeal of the people of Virginia to be relieved from this grievous system of taxation? I quote from his message of December 6, 1887, to Congress, four months after the Virginia convention was held:

"One scheme of taxation, by means of which this needless surplus is taken from the people and put into the public treasury, consists of a tariff or duty levied upon importations from abroad, and internal revenue taxes levied upon the consumption of tobacco and spirit-

They quoted Jefferson as authority for their theories, but the "great big man." retorted that it was "a condibig man" retorted that it was "a condition, not a theory, that confronted them," and that "condition" they did colutions in memoriam, of thanks, tributes of respect, resolutions adopted by societies or persons, unless of public concern, will only be printed in this paper as advertiseword from him looking to a graduated income tax, which would affect his rich friends in New York and Boston and make them help support the govern-ment which protected their vast wealth.
